Amelia; born 29 September 1843; Perth

Sarah Ann; born 09 February 1847; Perth

James Samuel; born 28 July 1850; Perth

Biography

James Cockman (an indentured servant to merchant George Leake) and Mary Ann Roper (a ladies maid) were married by the Reverend JB Wittenoom on 15 March 1830 at Fremantle. In November 1830, James' indenture to George Leake was cancelled, enabling him to make an application to the Colonel Secretary for permission to select and occupy a lot in Fremantle (Lot 139) on which his dwelling was built. Following the birth of their third child in October 1837, the family moved to a new house in Perth - Lot V29 in William Street, between Wellington and Murray Streets. James developed skills in the art of thatching, resulting in work, particularly from the new settlers - his occupation in 1841 was recorded as a Thatcher. By 1844 James and Mary Ann had 7 children. George Shenton entered their life - he arrived in the Colony in 1833 and was later to take up 640 acres of land in Wanneroo around a lake. James, Mary Ann and their family moved to Wanneroo in 1852 where he worked for George Shenton. One can visualize the feelings of Mary Ann with her young family of seven whose ages ranged from 18 to 2 years old, cooking on an open fire. No medical or health nearby, lack of formal education, no roads, winching water from a well. The first home at Wanneroo was just 2 rooms (wattle and daub). By 1858, James had accumulated one hundred pounds to buy 45 acres from George Shenton. He with the help of his older son John and young Sam who was then 8 years old set about building a more substantial home. 'Cockman House' as it is called today. Limestone walls, timber pit sawn for the rafters, windows and floor boards with then a shingle roof. They were self sufficient, lived off the land - the low lying marshy country was excellent for growing of vegetables, cows, pigs - wild duck, kangaroo and fish were in abundance nearby. The Home was built with a high gable room designed to allow a cooler home and easier run off during heavy rains - shingle roof - sheoak 10" x 4" nailed over the jarrah rafters. This roof was many years later replaced with corrugated iron. By 1876, all of James and Mary Ann's children were married, and with the exception of Samuel (the youngest) had moved away from home. Samuel and his wife Emma Jane (Edwards) formerly of Gingin, married in 1876 and continued to live in the house where they raised 13 children. James Cockman died in 1877, aged 69 years and Mary Ann in 1901 (94 years). Ruby Backshall (nee Cockman) the youngest in this generation was to live on in the house with her husband Albert V Backshall and family of six, together with Ernest John Cockman (her brother) who never married. Cockman House was occupied by descendants of James and Mary Ann, until it was purchased by the City of Wanneroo in 1989 and restored as a 'Pioneers Home'.

Emma READ

Born c1818 Gillingham, Dorset, England

Ship Rockingham from London, England

Arrival date and place 14 May 1830 Swan River Colony

Biography

Henry worked for the Fremantle Harbour Master from October 1829 to November 1831. The 1832 population census has him listed as single, aged 25 years and his occupation as a lime burner, whether he worked for himself or someone else is unknown. He married Emma Read, 15 August 1837 at Perth. Emma was the daughter of George and Elizabeth Read - this marriage produced no children. He witnessed a land memorial between Mark Read and William Shenton in 1837. With his wife Emma, Henry signed a petition for a Methodist minister's stipend in 1840, this may have been with some influence from his brother-in-law - Mark Read, as there is nothing to suggest Henry was a practising Methodist. Henry left the colony for a short period and went to England 1843. Henry, who was later known as 'Old King Cole' owned the United Services Hotel on land that extended from St. George's Terrace to Bazaar Terrace, from 1844 to 1854, and then later on again in 1863 to 1865. He enjoyed public life and was elected to the committee to arrange the foundation celebrations in 1844, appointed to the Perth Town Trust in 1848 and became chairman in February 1850. By all accounts Henry led a chequered and sometimes controversial life and no doubt caused distress to some people along the way. Henry died at Albany 19 March 1866 aged 57 years and although Emma was still alive there was no mention of her in his will. Emma died 3 May 1905.

Biography

Dr Collie was born in Aberdeenshire in the parish of Inch in 1793 on a farm known as 'Wantonwalls'. On his arrival he was allotted 1,500 acres on the left bank of the Swan and later in 1831 he received 5,000 acres at Albany. In 1829 in company with Lieutenant Preston, ROYAL NAVY., he explored the southwest and discovered and named the Collie and Preston Rivers. He was a great hiker. In 1830 reports of sickness were coming from the unfortunate Peel settlement at Clarence and Collie was sent to investigate. He found there had been 28 deaths and considerable amount of disease. He reported the food was bad, there was no nursing assistance, there was polluted water supply, an injudicious use of alcohol, and general incompetence of the Manager (Thomas Peel). In 1831 Collie was made a JP and appointed the first Govt Resident at Albany. His letters disclose he had a trying time. He suffered from what he called 'asthma' but it was most probably pulmonary tuberculosis, for it gradually wore him out and he died in 1835 of this lung complaint. He urged what has since become fulfilment 'Colonists in great, great numbers. WA will be populous, will be fertile, will be a land overflowing with milk and honey, before Sydney, before Van Diemens Land'. In 1831 he was appointed Colonial Surgeon to succeed Dr Simmons. He built the best house in Perth at that time situated on the site of the present Presbyterian Church, St Andrews. It cost five hundred pounds including outhouses. He gave up the idea of marriage because of his poor health. Dr Alexander Collie decided to return to England per the 'Zebra', but died at Albany en route on 11 November 1836. He is commemorated in a brass plaque in Perth pavement for the year 1835.

Biography

Anthony Cornish was a versatile man who conducted many successful businesses. He was a brick maker, builder, miller, trader, publican, farmer, land owner, and was active in civic affairs. Anthony married Rebecca Cooper (19 years) on 4 May 1843 at St John's Anglican Church, Pinjarra. He was in partnership with his brother-in-law Nicholas Paterson who had married Anthony's widowed sister Jane Green. They operated many businesses ventures, the first of which a lightering and boat hire business in Fremantle and later as part owners of the barques 'Hamlet' and 'Swan' and ran cargoes of sandalwood to Singapore and Mauritius. Anthony Cornish erected many buildings in Fremantle including the Port Mill, Essex Street (in 1996, restored & developed into 8 dwelling units) the Freemasons Hotel, South Terrace (in 2004, now the Sail & Anchor brewery). He farmed at Pinjarra leasing part of Singleton's estate, Dandalup farm. Some years later (1856) Cornish and Paterson paid 3000 pounds for 10,000 acres of this farm which they renamed 'Creaton'. With the help of convict labour he erected many fine homes for the two families on this property. His other building achievements in Pinjarra included substantial homes for other residents, his own family home 'Hampstead' situated on the river, several bridges over the waterways, between Pinjarra and Fremantle and St. John's Anglican Church (in which graveyard he is buried, with his wife Rebecca and other members of the Cornish and Paterson families). Anthony Cornish died at Pinjarra on 22 August 1871 aged 50 years and his wife Rebecca died at 'Hampstead' Pinjarra on 18 December 1883 (59 years). Three of their four sons were pioneers of the Kimberley's. William and Hamlet Cornish were members of the Murray Squatting Co. who in 1880 pioneered 'Yeeda Station' on the Fitzroy River south of the yet to be proclaimed town of Derby. Son Anthony was a member of the Kimberley Squatting Co. who pioneered 'Liveringa Station' further south east on the Fitzroy River, where at 25 years of age he was killed by a native in December 1882.

Biography

Doctor Cowcher was to have settled in South Africa, but on advice he decided to come and try his luck at Swan River. When he arrived at Fremantle, he applied for a doctor's position with the Colony in Fremantle - this was not successful. He then went to Guildford to live and was granted 1700 acres on the assessment of the value of articles that were brought to the Colony. The allotments offered were: 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, and 75 situated on the Helena River. Lot No 75 was swapped for Lot 15 which was situated on the Swan River. This was used to run a ferry service across the Swan River. With this ferry service, Dr Cowcher was given the rights to operate the Guildford Ferry and to receive ferry tolls for a period of twelve months from May 1831. As a concession to his reduced circumstances he was not required to pay rent for the ferry licence. The service was put into operation about the end of June 1831, it travelled between a landing on the riverbank at the end of Bridge Street, Guildford to the opposite bank below James Dodd's House. On the 8 April 1831, Dr GSF Cowcher wrote a letter for permission to build a hotel in Market St., Guildford - called the 'Guildford Hotel'. It was facing the river with French windows at both sides (it had seven rooms). After about three years in 1834 Dr Cowcher and family moved to Fremantle to live, where they remained until his death on 16 May 1840 - he was buried at Alma Street, Cemetery. His wife Sarah carried on until her death on 2 December 1876 and was buried at Skinner Street Cemetery in Fremantle. The boys then moved onto Pinjarra and then to the Williams district as farmers.

Biography

Married 1821 England. John and Elizabeth Crane and their four small children were aboard the first of Peel's ships, the 'Gilmore', when it sailed from England. The Cranes would have initially lived at Clarence with Peel's other indentured settlers. By 1831, Crane was living in Perth, where he was awarded the contract to cut a canal through a neck of land at Burswood. In the 1832 census John Crane was listed as a brick maker and labourer with Levey. John is recorded as making bricks where the Queens Gardens are today. On 6 January 1838, in a submission to the Governor proposing the first causeway across the flats east of Perth, Crane was named as a contractor. In 1839, a contract was let to John Crane for 250 pounds to build a canal around the riverside fringe of what is now the W.A.C.A. He was granted Guildford town Lot 50 on 10 March 1841, and also Perth Lot W20 on 8 September 1841. On 4 May 1842, the Causeway Committee accepted two tenders for the completion of the much discussed Causeway across the flats. One was from John Crane for 385 pounds for the embankment connecting the bridges. John later became the toll keeper on the Causeway. John was a carter and innkeeper in the 1850's and later a victualler. In 1850 he owned 20 acres in the Cockburn district and 45 acres in 1866. On the 23 July 1852, John Crane purchased Perth Lots E1 and E2 on the corner of Adelaide Terrace and Howick Streets from Lionel and William Sampson. Elizabeth Crane died in 1866 aged 65 years and John Benjamin Crane died on 30 October 1881, both in Western Australia.

Biography

William Crittal arrived at Swan River as an indentured servant to Alfred Hawes Stone, a solicitor, who planned to become one of the 'Landed Gentry' under James Stirling. Several years later Stone's dream was lost and William was released from his indentures to survive on his skills and experience in building and in agriculture. The evolution of the Colony led William to Toodyay where he married Elizabeth (Betsy) Thomas around 1840. Elizabeth was one of a group of young people who were sponsored, as trained servants, to the Colony by the 'Children's Friend Society'. She arrived with her brother Samuel. In 1842 William built the Toodyay Police Barracks which was the first public building in Toodyay. The couple leased property to farm but drought and a depression in the Colony crushed their dreams of independence. In 1851 these difficult times put the family, with 5 children, on the road to the Irwin River working for Lockier Burges herding sheep north to a new part of the Colony. Mary, the sixth of the Criddle children, is the first recorded birth in the Register of Births in Geraldton. In the years that followed William and Elizabeth worked for the Burges family and were rewarded with the opportunity to become yeoman farmers on the fertile Greenough Flats. The humble servants and their 14 children, became stalwarts of that community then extended to the Chapman Valley and other parts of the State. Many families are linked to the original Criddle including the Connolly family, the Brand family and the Cook family. The family tree is huge and touches most of the old Western Australian population. The beginnings of it are recorded in the publication 'William and Elizabeth Criddle - Alternatives at Swan River' by Roy Criddle.

Poll Susannah; baptised 28 October 1812; London, England

Biography

Mary Curtis was a shopkeeper in London when her husband died. They had married 29 September 1782 at St. James, Westminster, London when Mary was seventeen years old. Their five children were born in London. After William died she sold his carpenter's tools and used the money to open a shop in London. Son Anthony joined the Royal Navy at 12 years of age and visited the Colony in the early days. He returned to the Colony on the ship 'Medina'. Her son Anthony Barnabas Curtis sent for her and her daughter (his sister) Poll Susannah, to come to the Colony.

Anthony was a ship-owner and trader between Mauritius and the East Indies. He purchased the ship 'Fanny' in 1835. He was a merchant and importer. Mary lived in a cottage provided by Anthony in Fremantle until he died on 11 January 1853. She then lived with her son-in-law Edward Back at Fremantle and Rottnest Island. The cottage they lived in at Rottnest, is now known as Cottage K on Thompson's Bay. Conditions were very cramped so Captain Back her son-in-law wrote to the Colonial Secretary, to request that she be allowed to occupy a small room at Government House, Rottnest.

In 1857 Edward Back and his family returned to Fremantle and Mary returned and lived with them. When she died she was the oldest person in the Colony. Her death was reported in the Perth Gazette 'Her death was not caused by disease or decay but from shock occasioned when portion of her dress caught on fire'. Mary Curtis died on 14 April 1861 at Fremantle. She was buried in the Alma Street Cemetery, Fremantle. Mary was a strong and courageous woman to the last, a truly remarkable pioneer.
