Biography

The Samson brothers were from a wealthy London family of English Jewry. Lionel received a grant of 4696 acres on the Upper Swan near Henley Brook. On 5 September 1829, Lionel purchased Fremantle Town Lots 27 and 28 at the first land sale (now the location of Phillimore Street). He also had Fremantle Town Lots 53 and 54 in 1833. Fremantle Lot Sub O also in 1833 and Perth Lot L2 in 1830. His brother William was appointed Government Auctioneer for no specific term and this passed to Lionel in 1835, and then to the firm of Lionel Samson and Son. This appointment terminated in 1900. The spirit licence was issued to Lionel Samson and has been renewed since its introduction. Lionel also held the position of Postmaster of Fremantle until 1832. In 1839 Lionel moved to Perth Town Lot 1, on the corner of Barrack Sts and St George's Terrace leaving his brother William in charge at Fremantle. Lionel returned to England and whilst there married Fanny Levi in 1842. Members of the Levi family returned with Lionel and Fanny and they moved onto Adelaide where they settled in 1843. Lionel continued to trade in Perth, but returned his operations to Fremantle in 1852. In 1853 Lionel was elected Chairman of the first Western Australian Chamber of Commerce. Michael Samson, his eldest son, moved from Perth to an area on the De Grey River that was named Port Samson in his honour and declared a town site in 1902. Lionel formed a partnership with him in 1867 and the company became known as Lionel Samson and Son. Lionel's younger son William joined the company in 1877, one year before his father died. Lionel died 15 March 1878 at Fremantle. The Samson family of Fanny and her six children continued to run the company expanding the wine and spirits section to represent many leading wine and spirit merchants. Fanny died at Fremantle on 6 May 1888.

Biography

Daniel's father was a flag maker for the navy and merchant services. Daniel ran away to sea when he was quite a young man. By 1826 he was in command of the brig 'Ocean' which was involved in a sea rescue which earned Daniel Scott the thanks of the Royal Humane Society in London; there is quite a lot of detail in the biography about that incident, which involved a dream he had several days before the event, which he related to a Fremantle clergyman just before his death.

He married Frances Davis 18 March 1830 at Fremantle. They were married in the wreck of the 'Marquis of Anglesea' - which served as temporary official accommodation at Fremantle - by the Colonial Chaplain, the Rev. JB Wittenoom. Had Fremantle Lots 11, 12, 102, 103, 104, 105, 152, 267, Perth Lots L16 and Rottnest 26. Scott bought at auction in June 1843, the ship 'North America' beached at Bunbury. He had it re-floated and used it for coastal trade. He opened up the guano industry at the Abrolhos.

His warehouse on South Beach was used as a temporary jail when the first shipment of convicts arrived in Western Australia. Daniel had three sons - only one reached manhood. Of the daughters, Mary Ann married Charles Gale, Sophia married Charles Fauntleroy, Katherine married William Frederick Samson, Caroline married Dr Charles Henry Elliott of Fremantle, Julia married Clayton Turner Mason (Collector of Customs at Fremantle); all well known citizens of Western Australia.

Daniel died 20 February 1865 at Fremantle and Frances Harriet Scott died 2 November 1865 also at Fremantle.

Born in colony

William Proctor; born 10 June 1832; Guildford

Biography

John Scott was Helen's second husband. John and Helen married January 1819 at Hamilton, Scotland. Their Scottish farm was named 'Stratham' on the banks of the Clyde at Hamilton in Lanarkshire.

They arrived at Fremantle in 1831 and settled at Guildford at Lot 17 and farmed Location 27 (100 acres) later named 'Mt Pleasant' (now Perth airport). Their farming followed the pattern of diversification, growing cereals and vegetables. Scott had brought some of his cattle with him and these were best quality. They produced fat stock because of the great demand for meat. Their sons were excellent stockmen and Daniel, Helen's eldest son, became a skilled carpenter. Mother Helen Scott had developed an interest in medicine through her father's work as a doctor in England. Her knowledge helped many early settlers, including acting as a midwife at the birth of Lord Forrest. In 1833, another son, William Proctor Scott was born.

After 6 years, they felt the Colony had not lived up to expectations and decided to move to Port Phillip Bay on the east coast where their cousin, William Henry Scott was farming. Governor Stirling would not hear of them leaving the Colony and promised a good farm, rent-free forever for Scott and his sons. Daniel McGregor was instructed by Stirling to select suitable land anywhere between Vasse and Pinjarra. He chose 320 acres on the banks of the Preston River, later known as 'Eelup'. It was agreed that the family would go south to found a settlement and Scott would be Stirling's agent. In January 1838 they left Fremantle for Leschenault Inlet on the "Champion" with supplies. Daniel was a trailblazer, opening the first inland track between Pinjarra and Bunbury in 1838. He was the first mail contractor between Bunbury and Swan River for about 5 years on foot prior to 1843. Governor Stirling appointed Daniel to lead a party with stock and farm implements to Port Leschenault, to manage the Governor's estate. Daniel McGregor and Robert Scott and three of their stockmen drove cattle and supplies overland from Guildford. They arrived four days before the 'Champion'. Robert spoke the local Nyoongar aboriginal language. Daniel chose the site for Bunbury's first farm on the Preston River in 1856. He held several properties, including 900 fertile acres in Quindalup purchased from Colonel Molloy for 350 pounds. The farm was called 'Cometvale'.

In honour of John and Helen Scott there is a plaque in Central Park in Bunbury.

John died 29 July 1880 at Picton and Helen died 13 March 1883 also at Picton, both are buried at Picton Church.

Biography

Married Mary (his 2nd marriage) c1828 in Kent England. Son Richard Frisby was child of Richard's (first marriage). Richard was indentured to Henry Camfield. This was cancelled in 1830. He was then employed by Thompson and Trimmer of Guildford.

In May 1831 he applied for a loan of seed and rations for his own allotment. He described himself as a carpenter. He later built a two storey home - 'Clayton Farm' at Bellevue, making the bricks and hand cutting the timber. Alice Crocker in her article 'History of This Land' describes the farm ... 'All the bricks for the roomy, two storeyed farm house were made in a puddle mill on the property, and all the timber was cut and sawn into beams and planks in the old fashioned sawpit. Under the staircase they built huge bins where oatmeal, sugar and other necessities were stored in large quantities. They followed the English model in laying out Clayton. A five stall stable, a separate cottage for a farm hand, with coach-house attached, barns, pigpens were all built to the English farm style'. The house still stands in Bellevue.

Took up growing grain, vines and poultry. He is reported in assisting in the building of the Governor's Cottage Ornee at Woodbridge. Also of building the first coffin in Western Australia. He owned land at Herdsman Lake in July 1849 and was elected to the Guildford Town Trust. He built a vessel from old packing cases to transport stores from Fremantle to Perth. He built a Smiths Mill at Sawyers Valley.

Earlier the family had the misfortune of being twice burnt out leaving them only with the clothes they wore, even new handles had to be made for the tools and farm implements.

Richard William died 15 July 1878 at East Guildford. Mary died 1 August 1891 at Guildford - both are buried at Guildford Grammar School.

Biography

The first home Charles and Elizabeth had in the Colony was a tent. Charles was indentured to merchant Lionel Samson until 28 February 1831 when the Indenture was released. They lived in Cantonment Street, Fremantle during that period. Charles then worked for Captain Thomas Hester on Red Cliff Farm at Canning River.

Charles proved to be dependable, self reliant and with previous farming experience. Together the couple turned very marginal farming land into a reasonable successful operation. In lieu of wages, Hester made over some land to Charles and Elizabeth to hold in trusteeship for their children, Elizabeth and John reached the age of twenty one. They farmed this land until they moved to Serpentine in 1852. Charles was granted 25 acres and Lot 48 of 10 acres. These lots were located on the Serpentine River about one mile from the Falls. In this time they had seven more children.

After they left, John continued to work the Canning River property until his death in 1910. Spencer Road in Thornlie is named after the family and Oak Tree Court, Langford is the location of an oak tree planted on the original farm. The family with seven of the children built a thatched roofed cottage.

Charles became Postmaster of Serpentine until his death at Serpentine on 13 December 1872. His wife Elizabeth died 5 January 1884 at her son John's house at Canning River. Elizabeth is buried in the old Kenwick cemetery (Gosnells). Elizabeth Spencer married James Gallop, John Spencer married Jane Hannah Willey, Joshua married Mary Anne Moore, Rhodia married Walter Scrivener and Emily married John Richard Pengelly.

Biography

Richard and Ann married 31 August 1812. Sir Richard Spencer arrived at Albany to take up the post of Government Resident after living at Lyme Regis, Dorset for some years as a naval post-captain on half pay.

He and his family took over 'Strawberry Farm' at Albany and purchased some of the surrounding land. His main contributions until his death in 1839, are as follows: He was the first to farm seriously and successfully in the Albany area.

He was the original pioneer of the Hay River district - the first person to realise the potential of the inland areas for farming. He realised the poor nutritional value of native vegetation - he advocated large farms to compensate for this. He introduced good quality stock to the district, including the first stud horse. Although not believed, he recognised the potential of the Plantagenet area for vineyards.

He was an efficient, if unpopular, administrator in his role of Government Resident. He handled the Aboriginal population; fairly and well. He promoted the virtues of the area tirelessly.

Sir Richard died 24 July 1839 at Albany and Lady Ann Spencer died at Perth 19 July 1855.

Biography

Saul and Sarah Spice and their six children hoped for a better life - owning their own land - when they decided to emigrate to the new colony on the Swan River. By joining the ill-fated land settlement scheme organised by Thomas Peel, they instead, found hardship and despair. Saul was released from his indentures and found work as a brick maker in Perth (1832 census). Had Perth Lots T8, T9, and T10 all in 1831. By the 1837 Census Saul and family were farming at Upper Swan on land leased from Mr George Leake. The Spice family had crops, pasture and many livestock. They lost their eldest son William in 1838 to tuberculosis, having lost their daughter Jane to the same disease in 1833. Two daughters married soldiers in 1848. Saul and Sarah sold their three blocks of land in Adelaide Terrace, Perth and purchased 320 acres of land at Bindoon which they named 'Brockhill'. They farmed here until they died at an advanced age, Saul on 8 June 1888. Sarah pre-deceased him dying 29 October 1860.

Biography

Edmund was the son of Edmund John and Judith (nee Massingham). In the 1832 Census Edmund was listed as aged 20 years and single living in Fremantle. It is believed that he and fellow passenger Charles Macfaull, from the 'Edward Lombe', planted the colony's first vines near Fremantle.

In 1833, this same pair along with WK Shenton produced the first printed newspaper, the 'Fremantle Observer, Perth Gazette and Western Australian Journal'. Edmund married Ethel Read on 9 November 1836 at Perth. Ethel was the daughter of George and Elizabeth Read. He married in a double wedding with Ethel's sister Maria. The first of twelve children of this union was Amelia Elizabeth born in 1838.

He subscribed to the Perth Wesleyan Church in 1841. It was about this time that Edmund started using the name Stirling and advertised the services of his printing business in 1843 in the 'Inquirer'. He became the 'Inquirer's' principal compositor and printer and was sole proprietor and editor by 1847.

Edmund Stirling was a member of the Perth Town Trust and later of the City Council, also a director of the Geraldine Mining Company. In the 1860's he formed the West Australian Telegraph Co. with Alexander Cumming and in 1869 opened the first line between Perth and Fremantle. Having passed on the duties to his sons from the 'Inquirer' in 1866, Edmund then retired from the telegraph company in 1878.

Ethel died 4 October 1887 at Perth. Edmund married a second time on 7 January 1889 to Emma Amelia Meares (widow-nee Wright). Edmund died 2 November 1897 at Perth and Emma Amelia died 17 May 1923.

Resigned in 1837 and departed per the 'Champion' 6 January 1839. Refer 'Land Looking West' Malcolm Uren and 'Sir James Stirling' by Pamela Statham.

The suburb Ellenbrook is named after the Ellen Brook, a tributary of the Swan River, which forms part of its Eastern boundary. Ellen Brook is named after Ellen Stirling, the wife of the colony's first Governor, James Stirling. Admiral Sir James Stirling died 22 April 1865 at Woodbridge, Surrey, England in his 75th year of his age and was interred at Stoke Church.

Ellen lived until 1874 and died 8th June 1874. She is also buried at Stoke Church, Guildford, Surrey, England.

In 1979 (Western Australia's 150th Anniversary of Foundation) the simple granite headstone was repaired and replaced. The inscription on the stone reads: 'Sacred to the memory of Admiral Sir James Stirling, Who died at Woodbridge, In this Parish, On the 22nd day of April 1865, Aged 74 Years, 'I am the Resurrection and the Life, Also, To the beloved memory of Ellen, widow of Admiral Sir James Stirling, Born 4th of September 1808, Died 8th June 1874. Thou wilt shew me the paths of life, in thy presence is fullness of joy at thy right hand there are pleasures for evermore'. Psalm XV1 v11.

Biography

James Stokes commercialised the first brewery in the Colony. Known as the 'Albion' it was built in Spring Street and later was renamed the Stanley Brewery. He had Fremantle Lot 377 in 1834. In 1857 James left the Brewery in the capable hands of his foreman William Meloy and returned to Bristol and married Julia Maria Stokes (a cousin - born 1830 at Bedminster, England). James and Julia arrived on the 'Spartan' to Fremantle on the 17 February 1858 and settled in the home James had built for her on the slopes of Mt Eliza. By then the Brewery was operating successfully and provided James and Julia with a comfortable living and land interests in and around Perth. Sadly Julia died the day after giving birth to a daughter, their first child on 17 May 1858. James never fully recovered from the tragedy of Julia's death and heart-broken he died at home on 3 January 1861. Wittenoom Street in East Perth was formally Stokes Street named after James. The daughter Julia Maria named after her mother, was raised by guardians and received a full education. Eventually Julia married a P & O shipping steward and settled in Albany, Western Australia where her husband William John Parker gained employment in the Albany Post Office. Julia and William had three children, Cyril, Maidie and Jessie. Death came to Julia in 1925 and William died in 1960 at the age of 96 years. Both are interred in the Old Cemetery, Middleton Road, Albany, Western Australia.
